1. A COMPLEX ECOSYSTEM WITH HIGH COMPLIANCE PRESSURE

Waste management companies operate in a complex regulatory environment, with growing demands around traceability, reporting, and operational efficiency.

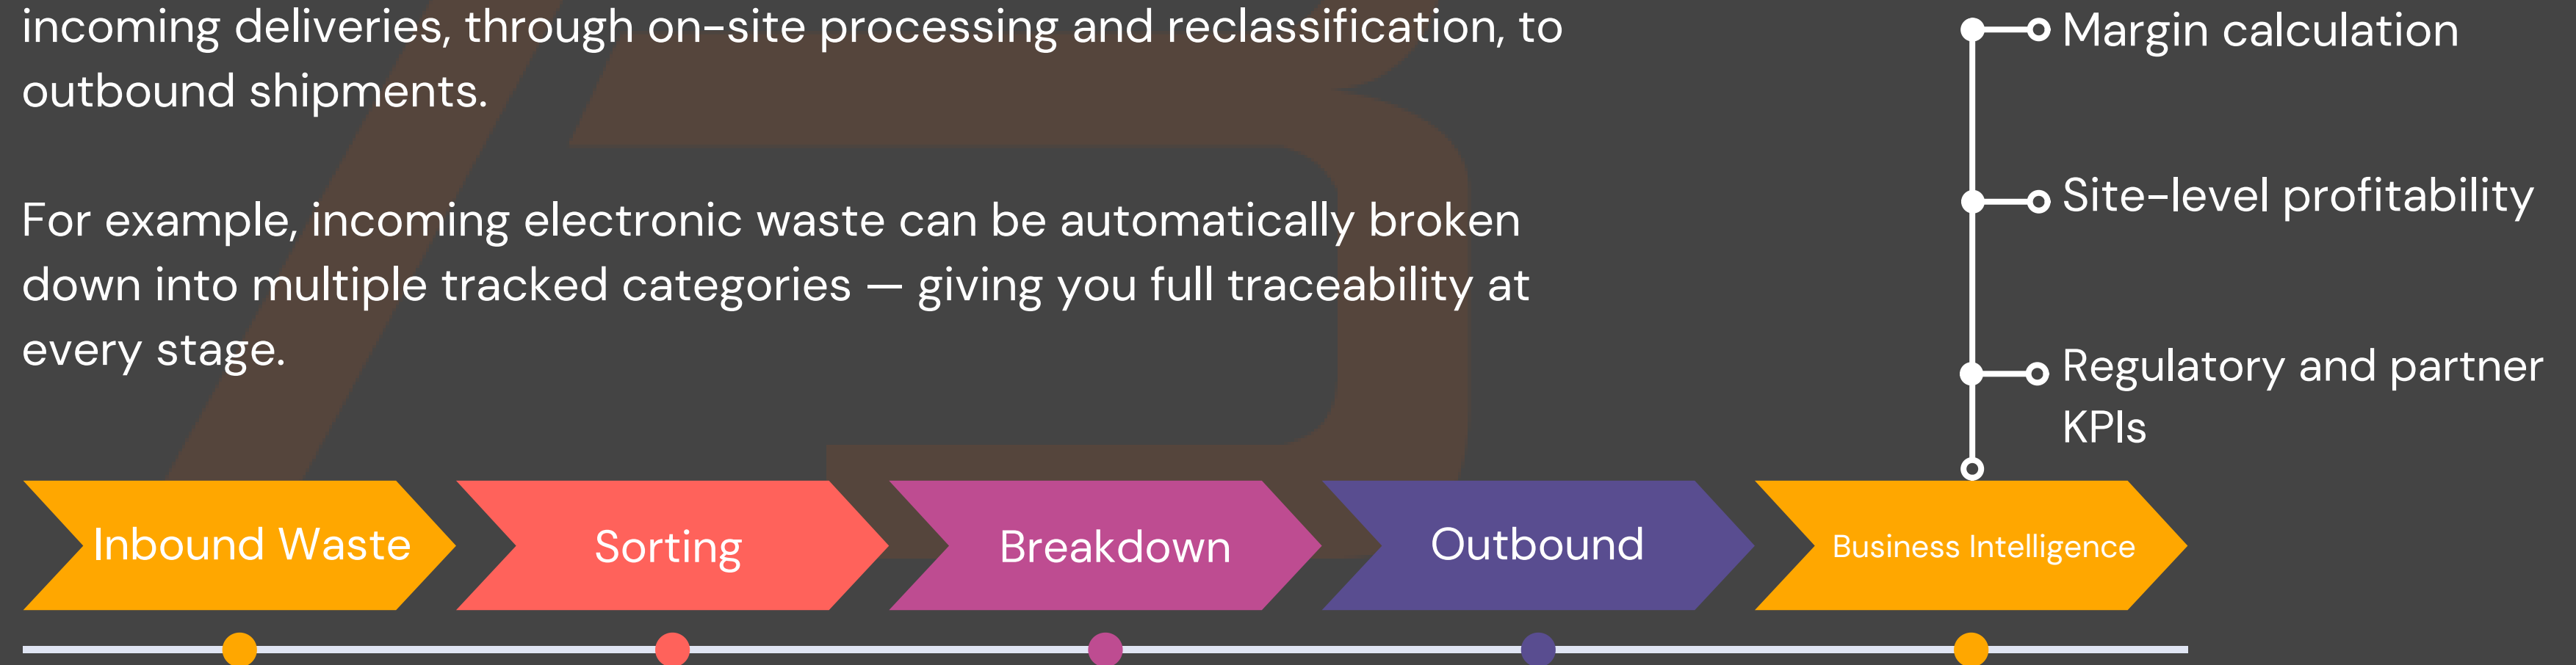

Whether handling electronic waste, packaging materials, or municipal streams, having a central, intelligent system is key to meeting requirements and improving margins.

2. MATERIAL FLOW TRACKING: FROM COLLECTION TO PROCESSING TO REPORTING

ABUX provides end-to-end visibility over all waste movement: from incoming deliveries, through on-site processing and reclassification, to outbound shipments.

For example, incoming electronic waste can be automatically broken down into multiple tracked categories — giving you full traceability at every stage.

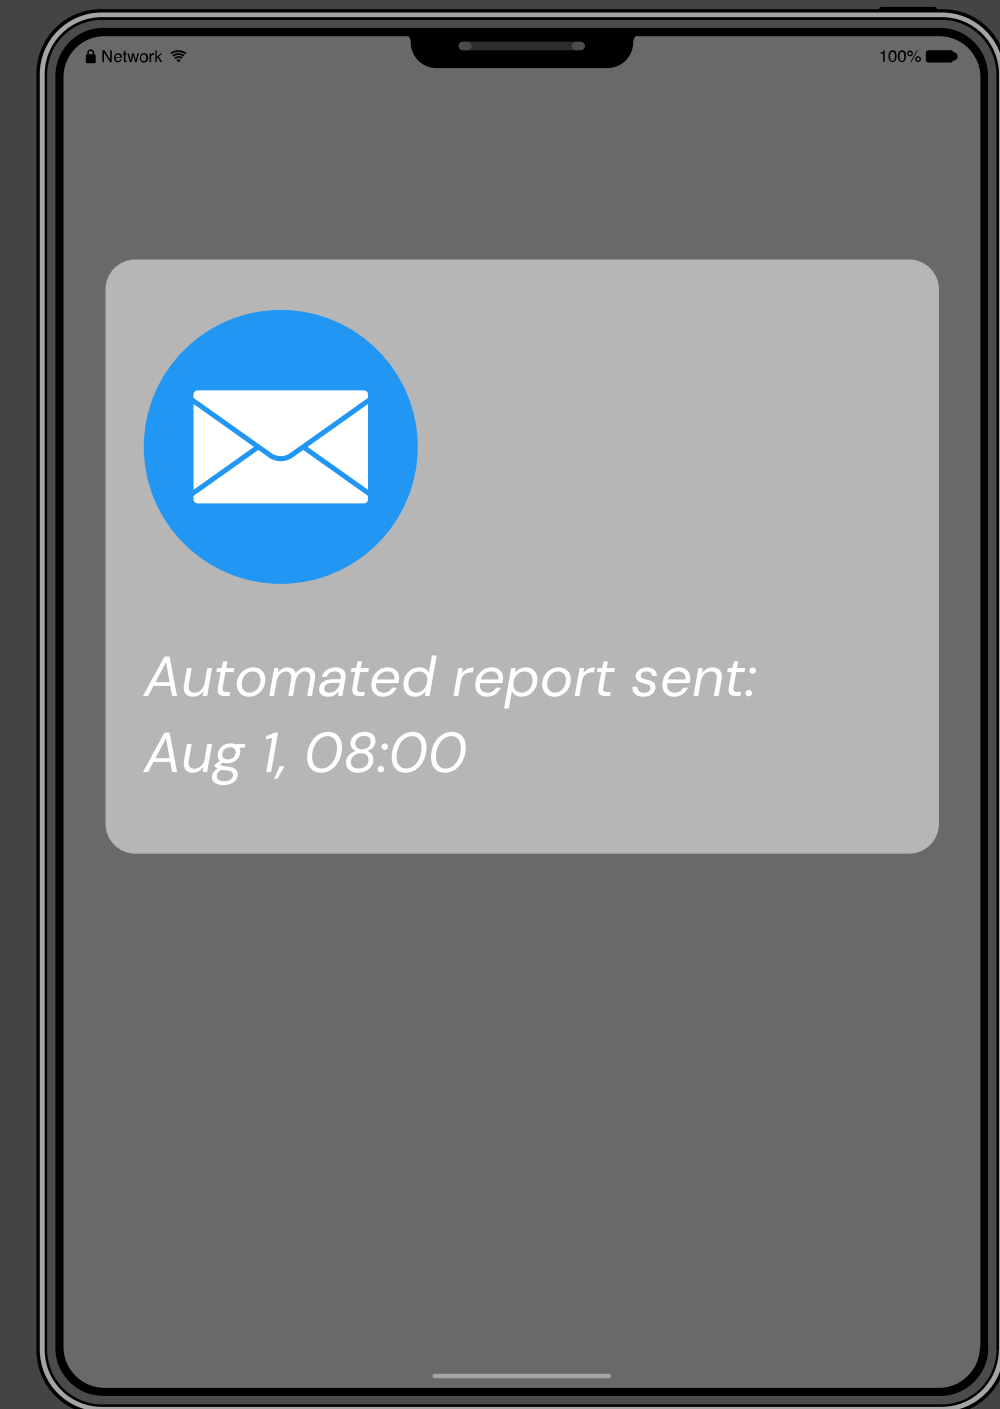

3. AUTOMATED REPORTING & UPDATES

Waste operators often face strict reporting requirements — both externally to national authorities or partner organizations, and internally for operations, finance, and compliance teams.

ABUX simplifies this process by automatically generating and distributing reports at regular intervals.

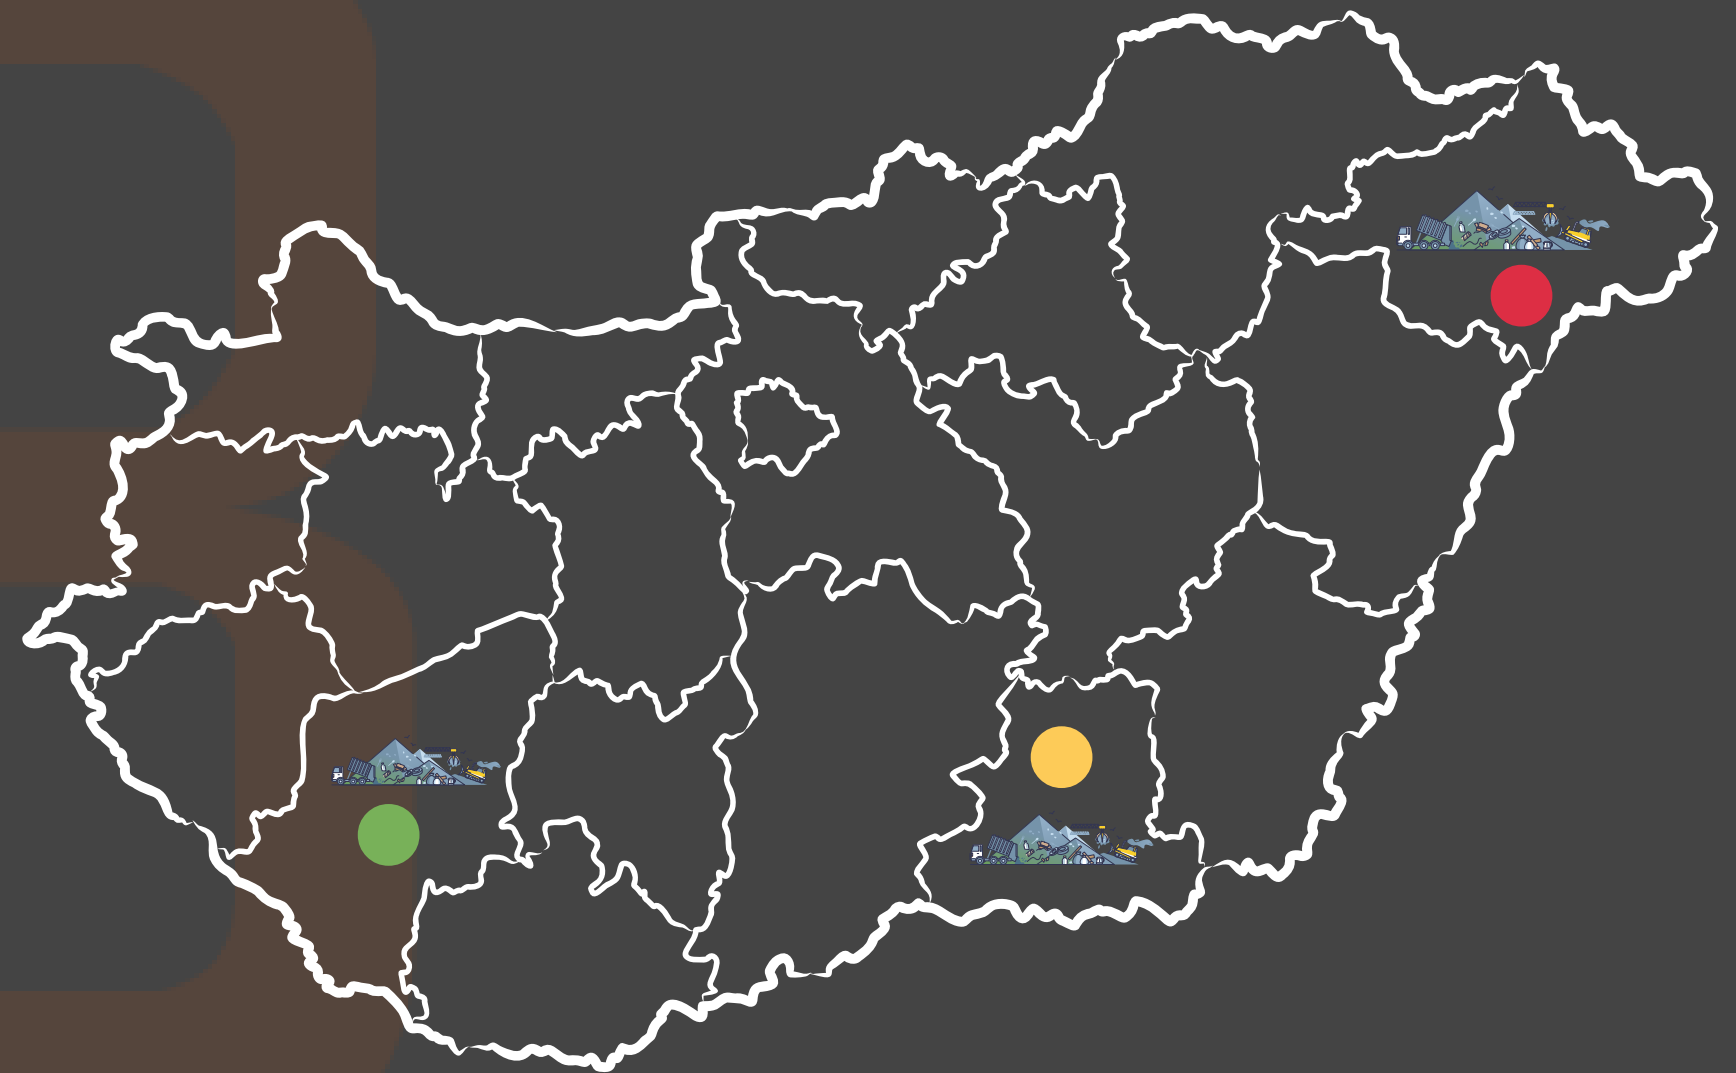

Whether it's a weekly partner summary, a monthly regulatory report, or daily internal updates, the system ensures all stakeholders receive the information they need — in the right format, at the right time.

4. PROFITABILITY BY SITE AND ACTIVITY

Profitability varies by region, activity, and partner — which is why ABUX gives you site-level financial insights.

Measure performance across business units, identify underperforming contracts, and optimize where needed.

● Profitable site ● Break-even or minor loss ● Loss-making site

5. INTEGRATED BUSINESS & COMPLIANCE INTELLIGENCE

Beyond tracking and reporting, ABUX supports strategic planning by unifying data across operations.

Resource allocation, financial planning, and legal compliance are all backed by real-time, structured information.
